

Chaos Induced by Magnetic Field in Asymmetric Double Barrier Resonant Tunneling Structures

F. Claro, P. A. Orellana, E. Anda

Abstract

We show that a transition to chaos is expected in an asymmetric double barrier structure with a magnetic field parallel to the current. The transition occurs via successive bifurcations as the magnetic field is increased. The origin of this chaotic behavior is the electron-electron interaction in the space between the barriers near resonance.